Continuous Glucose Monitors & GMI: Is this TMI?

Session Date: 10/19/2021

Session Time: 11:00 – 11:45 AM (CST)

Target Audience

This continuing education (CE) session was planned to meet the needs of professional staff who deal with the selection and monitoring of medication(s) as part of their patient care duties, including pharmacists, RNs, APRNs, PAs, MDs.

Activity Overview

Technology for managing diabetes has continued to expand over the past decade with continuous glucose monitors (CGMs) gaining an increasing amount of interest by both the public and the medical community. CGMs are a useful tool to lower or maintain hemoglobin A1C levels, reduce hypoglycemia, and improve hyperglycemia in patients with diabetes. Current diabetes guidelines recommend robust diabetes education, training, and support for those prescribing and utilizing CGMs in their practice. This presentation will provide a comprehensive overview of CGMs and how to use the glycemic data from CGM reports to optimize patient care.

Learning Objectives

At the conclusion of this knowledge-based CE session, participants should be able to:

1. Identify three continuous glucose monitors (CGMs) approved by the FDA
2. Describe the difference between glucose management indicator (GMI) and hemoglobin A1c
3. Discuss how to interpret glycemic data using an Ambulatory Glycemic Profile (AGP) report
