Activity Description

Medical Grand Rounds is a weekly forum to educate the Department of Medicine (DOM) through lectures on advances in clinical practice, research, and medical education. Attendees include Mayo Clinic DOM physician faculty, physician faculty visiting from other Mayo departments, DOM fellows, DOM residents, Mayo Medical Students, and allied-health staff. Medical practice changes quickly. Therefore a gap exists for Medical Grand Rounds attendee's knowledge of the latest in clinical practice, research, and medical education. Medical Grand Rounds' weekly lectures are designed to present the latest information by outstanding speakers who have the expertise in these gaps.

Learning Objectives/Anticipated Outcomes

- State the public and individual health benefits of collecting and reporting COVID-19 data by gender and race/ethnicity
- Discuss non-clinical factors that impact the observed disproportionate COVID-19 infection and mortality rates among members of racial and ethnic minority communities
