

Pharmacology Workshop

Wednesday, October 19, 2016
2:00 p.m.	Antibiotic Update  Daniel C. DeSimone, M.D. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Develop a strategy for selecting an antibiotic based on the microorganism</li> <li>• Determine the appropriate use of antibiotics for multi-drug resistant organisms</li> </ul>
2:45 p.m.	Know the NOACs (Novel Anticoagulants)  Sameer A. Parikh, M.B.B.S. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• To understand differences of efficacy and safety among the these agents</li> <li>• To develop a framework for choosing a specific agent for your patient           <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Atrial fibrillation</li> <li>○ Venous thromboembolism</li> <li>○ Reversal of bleeding</li> <li>○ Special situations</li> </ul> </li> </ul>
3:30 p.m.	Refreshment Break
3:45 p.m.	Common Chemotherapies and their Side Effects  Nathan J. Dahl, Pharm.D., R.Ph. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Attempt to define common chemotherapy</li> <li>• Review chemotherapeutic agents approved by the Food &amp; Drug Administration in recent years</li> <li>• Describe common side effects of chemotherapeutic agents including patient presentation, diagnosis and management</li> <li>• Identify specific chemotherapeutic agents associated with drug-induced side effects</li> </ul>
4:30 p.m.	Common Drugs for a Night on Call  Haesuk Heagney, Pharm.D., R.Ph. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Identify multiple modalities of pain management and determine the best pharmacologic agent for particular patient populations.</li> <li>• Understand the risk and benefits of available pharmacologic interventions for management of agitation and delirium.</li> <li>• Compare and contrast anti-hypertensive agents used in severe asymptomatic hypertension.</li> <li>• Review antiemetic agents and their mechanisms of action.</li> </ul>
5:15 p.m.	Adjourn