

Professor Jeffrey Braithwaite

BA, DipLR, MBA, MIR (Hons), PhD, FIML, FCHSM, FFPHRCP (UK), FAcSS (UK), Hon FRACMA, FAAHMS

Professor Jeffrey Braithwaite is a leading health services and systems researcher with an international reputation for his work investigating and contributing to systems improvement. He has expertise in the culture and structure of acute settings, leadership, management and change in health sector organisations, quality and safety in healthcare, health sector reform in international context and the restructuring of health services. He has professorial appointments at six universities, is the President of the International Society for Quality in Health Care (ISQua) and is an expert for, and advisor to, the WHO, the OECD and research groups around the world.

His research examines the changing nature of health systems, attracting funding of more than AU$187 million. His key expertise is in quality of care, patient safety, systems improvement, learning health systems and implementation science. He has led, with international colleagues, book series on, and profoundly deepened understanding of, first, resilient health care and second, international health reform, with 15 books to his credit.

Professor Braithwaite has contributed over 756 refereed publications and has presented at international and national conferences on more than 1,372 occasions, including 130 keynote addresses. His research appears in journals such as The BMJ, JAMA, The Lancet, Social Science & Medicine, BMJ Quality & Safety, and the International Journal for Quality in Health Care. He has received 65 different national and international awards for his teaching and research.