Jennifer Livingston is the Director of Community Relations at Mayo Clinic Health System. She is dedicated to enhancing community well-being through strategic collaborations with local leaders, organizations, and residents to address health-related needs.

In her role, Jennifer actively pursues opportunities to exemplify Mayo Clinic Health System's mission of delivering accessible, patient-centered care while actively contributing to the overall health of the community.

Before joining Mayo Clinic Health System, Jennifer spent 25 years as an anchor and reporter in TV news. Her noteworthy career earned numerous awards for storytelling excellence, including 11 Emmy Awards and a prestigious national Edward R. Murrow recognition. She has leaned on that wealth of experience in her role at Mayo to bridge healthcare and community development.
