

Faculty Biography Form

Hispanic/Latina Women in Medicine: Critical Needs for Empowerment and Transformation in Practice 2024

September 13-15, 2024

Name, Credentials: Lucinda A. Harris, M.S., M.D.

Title: Professor of Medicine | Consultant | Division of Gastroenterology & Hepatology | Department of Medicine

Company/Hospital: Mayo Clinic Scottsdale

Brief Bio: Lucinda A. Harris, MS, MD, is currently a Professor of Medicine, Mayo School of Medicine and Consultant, Division of Gastroenterology and Hepatology, Mayo Clinic Scottsdale. She graduated from the University Of Connecticut School Of Medicine. She completed her Internal Medicine Residency at the New York Presbyterian Hospital of Columbia University and her fellowship in Gastroenterology & Hepatology at The New York Hospital /Weill Medical College of Cornell University.

She is a current member of the Gastroenterology Fellowship committee and serves as the Department Education coordinator for Gastroenterology supervising visiting GI fellows and medical students. She has actively been involved in mentoring medical students, residents and fellows over the years.

Professionally, she is a Fellow of the American College of Gastroenterology, the American Gastroenterological Association as well as the American College of Internal Medicine. She is a member of the International Foundation for Functional Gastrointestinal Disorders and the American Neurogastroenterology and Motility Society and most recently was appointed, to the Rome V Committee- Patient Experience, Race, Gender and Social Determinants of Health. She is a passionate advocate for her patients and her special clinical and research interests are in IBS, gastroparesis, chronic constipation and pelvic floor disorders as well as celiac disease and autonomic disorders. She has also written and lectured extensively on these topics