Blueprints for the Future: Future-Ready Operations and Financial Strategies for Gene Therapy

Session Date: 01/28/2025

Session Time: 11:00 – 11:45 AM (CST)

Target Audience

This continuing education (CE) session was planned to meet the needs of professional staff who deal with the selection and monitoring of medication(s) as part of their patient care duties, including pharmacists, RNs, APRNs, PAs, MDs.

Activity Overview

Hemoglobinopathies, such as sickle cell disease and beta-thalassemia, affect over 330,000 newborns annually and contribute to significant global health burdens. Gene therapies are emerging as a revolutionary treatment, offering the possibility of a one-time cure for these lifelong conditions. However, implementing these therapies presents operational challenges, including the need for specialized facilities and multidisciplinary care coordination. Additionally, with treatment costs surpassing $2 million per patient, there are pressing concerns about financial accessibility, cost-effectiveness, and long-term economic sustainability. This presentation will examine the pathophysiology of hemoglobinopathies, review current and emerging therapies, and explore strategies to address the operational and financial challenges of integrating gene therapy into clinical practice.

Learning Objectives

At the conclusion of this knowledge-based CE session, participants should be able to:

- 1. Describe the pathophysiology, current treatments and gene therapies for hemoglobinopathies.
- 2. Examine the operational challenges and strategies for integration of gene therapies into clinical practice.
- 3. Evaluate the financial considerations of gene therapy for hemoglobinopathies, including cost-effectiveness and long-term economic sustainability.
