From Drips to Scripts: Oral Step-down Therapy in Uncomplicated Gram-negative Bacteremia

Session Date: 02/11/2025

Session Time: 11:00 – 11:45 AM (CST)

Target Audience

This continuing education (CE) session was planned to meet the needs of professional staff who deal with the selection and monitoring of medication(s) as part of their patient care duties, including pharmacists, RNs, APRNs, PAs, MDs.

Activity Overview

The 2016 IDSA guidelines for catheter-related bloodstream infections recommend a 7-14 day duration of antibiotics for gram-negative infections, while the IDSA 2016 stewardship guidelines emphasize a timely transition from intravenous to oral antibiotics. However, these guidelines provide limited guidance on the duration of intravenous antibiotics and the selection of oral antibiotics. In recent years, multiple studies have explored the efficacy and safety of shorter overall antibiotic durations, early transitions to oral antibiotics, and the use of oral antibiotics for uncomplicated gram-negative bloodstream infections. This presentation will review the literature on antibiotic duration and the effectiveness of low and highly bioavailable oral antimicrobials for the treatment of uncomplicated gram-negative bloodstream infections.

Learning Objectives

At the conclusion of this knowledge-based CE session, participants should be able to:

1. Describe clinical characteristics of uncomplicated gram-negative bacteremia.
2. List appropriate oral antibiotics for step-down therapy from IV antibiotics for uncomplicated gram-negative bacteremia.
3. Establish an appropriate antibiotic duration to effectively treat gram-negative bacteremia based on recent literature.
