Inflammation Interrupted: IL-1 Blockade in Recurrent Pericarditis

Session Date: 11/25/2025

Session Time: 11:00 – 11:45 AM (CST)

Target Audience

This continuing education (CE) session was planned to meet the needs of professional staff who deal with the selection and monitoring of medication(s) as part of their patient care duties, including pharmacists, RNs, APRNs, PAs, MDs.

Activity Overview

The 2025 consensus statement from the American College of Cardiology regarding the management of pericarditis creates a new role for interleukin-1 (IL-1) inhibitors for the treatment and prevention of recurrent pericarditis. Previous therapy options focused on steroids with many patients facing steroid dependence and harmful side effects from long-term use. IL-1 inhibitors have been shown to greatly reduce or even prevent recurrence with minimal side effects. However, optimal duration of therapy for IL-1 inhibitors and best practices for discontinuation are not yet established, raising the question of whether the benefits outweigh the risks given the costly nature of these therapies. This presentation will review the literature behind the 2025 guideline updates and suggest the place in therapy for IL-1 inhibitors.

Learning Objectives

At the conclusion of this knowledge-based CE session, participants should be able to:

1. Recall the pathophysiology and clinical presentation of pericarditis
2. Summarize the current treatment options available for recurrent pericarditis
3. Determine the place in therapy for IL-1 inhibitors in the treatment of recurrent pericarditis
