Flo and Behold: SGLT2 Inhibitors Meet the Kidney Allograft

Session Date: 10/20/2026

Session Time: 11:00 – 11:45 AM (CST)

Target Audience

This continuing education (CE) session was planned to meet the needs of professional staff who deal with the selection and monitoring of medication(s) as part of their patient care duties, including pharmacists, RNs, APRNs, PAs, MDs.

Activity Overview

Sodium-glucose cotransporter-2 (SGLT2) inhibitors have established significant clinical benefits across multiple disease states. Initially approved for the treatment of type 2 diabetes mellitus, they have since received FDA approval for chronic kidney disease and heart failure. Despite these benefits, concerns regarding adverse effects, particularly genitourinary infections, have previously limited their use in kidney transplant recipients. Current clinical guidelines provide limited recommendations regarding SGLT2 inhibitor use in kidney transplant recipients, reflecting ongoing uncertainty within this population. However, emerging evidence suggests these therapies may be both safe and effective in appropriately selected patients. This presentation will review the current literature evaluating the safety and efficacy of SGLT2 inhibitors in kidney transplant recipients and discuss their potential role in clinical practice.

Learning Objectives

At the conclusion of this knowledge-based CE session, participants should be able to:

1. Review the current role of SGLT2 inhibitors in the non-transplant population and identify knowledge gaps in kidney transplant recipients.
2. Assess the safety of SGLT2 inhibitors in kidney transplant recipients.
3. Evaluate current evidence and clinical benefits of SGLT2 inhibitors in kidney transplant recipients.
